We would like to take this opportunity to express our gratitude for our educational visit to River Cottage. On September 1st & 2nd, students and lecturers from John Neumann University (Kecskemét, Hungary) visited your establishment. The objective of the visit was to explore the concept, mission, and business model underlying River Cottage, as well as the practical lessons learned from its operations over the past few years.

During the two-day visit, the River Cottage team helped us achieve this goal through extremely informative presentations and professional workshops. Participants received comprehensive answers to all their questions. River Cottage's key service portfolios, the associated customer segments, and the marketing tools supporting brand development were presented in a transparent and engaging manner.

All of this proved to be exceptionally helpful in broadening the perspectives of students enrolled in tourism, hospitality, and business degree programs. Meanwhile, the university's faculty and staff gained an inspiring benchmark that laid the groundwork for implementing similar operational models in Hungary. In addition to the workshops, participants were given a guided tour of the River Cottage demonstration garden and kitchen, and had the opportunity to acquire a variety of practical skills.

Considering all of this, we found the visit to be immensely useful, and we look forward to further educational collaboration in the future.
